

HOMeward BOUND THEATRE COMPANY

A Performing Arts Ministry to Creatively Impact the World for Christ

"A Hero's Touch" happens in a world of hero's and villains, in a convenience store near closing time. The infamous Edward Vile, also known as E. Vile, attempts to rob the store! Unbeknownst to him, one of the patrons of the store is actually Almost Amazing Man! When Almost Amazing Man foils E. Vile's attempt to steal from the store, E. Vile tries to kidnap nine year old Casey, an innocent bystander. Casey refuses to be abducted by E. Vile and proceeds to teach him the rules of good touch and bad touch.

Through the interactions of the characters in this play the children will learn to ask their parents before going with anyone or accepting gifts, learn to identify what is a good touch and what is a bad touch, be empowered to say no when they feel uncomfortable, taught how to deal with bullying and harassment, and encouraged to think of some safe and trusted adults they can talk to when something uncomfortable happens.

Homeward Bound Theatre Company's is a non-profit, 501-C3, professional performing arts organization, committed to providing youth with choices that will help them improve their self-confidence and self-esteem. With this strong self concept, they can make better choices for themselves and resist the negative pressures they face each day of their lives.

HBTC is a group of young people sharing drama productions and sketches about various issues facing today's youth. Members have been professionally trained as actors, peer facilitators, and public speakers on current topics that are negatively affecting our country's youth.

An interactive discussion following each performance, provides time during which youth can relate to youth about their issues, questions, feelings, and concerns, as well as helping them in dealing with the pressures and challenges of today's world.
